

Subject: Re: Reproducing Apollo coloring pages from brianfloca.com

From: Brian Floca Studio <studio@brianfloca.com>

Date: 6/18/2009 1:57 PM

To: Eric H. Bowen <eric@streamlinerschedules.com>

Eric,

Absolutely! The pages should print with a credit line on them (let me know if they don't; that means I have something to fix on my end) and just so that credit line is left on the page, you have my blessing for any not-for-profit use you can imagine.

And thanks for the web links. Your organization and picnic plans, too, look great. It's exciting to think of the anniversary being celebrated in Houston. I live in Brooklyn but I grew up in Texas -- in Temple -- so I'm not without a dash of home state pride for the space center.

Let me know how the pages go over if you get a chance (but no obligation, of course). Best wishes for your celebrations, and thanks for writing!

Best,
Brian

.....
P: 917 297 7541
<http://brianfloca.com>

On Jun 18, 2009, at 2:28 PM, Eric H. Bowen wrote:

Brian,

I am the chairman of the Houston chapter of the Moon Society. I would like to see if I may obtain permission to use the three coloring page images (of the Apollo command/service modules, the lunar lander, and the spacesuited astronaut) on your Downloads page to make up a mini coloring book to be distributed (free of charge) at a local party celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Apollo 11 landing. I will be happy to include any acknowledgment or credits you may require. Please respond by return email when you have the chance.

Web site for the party:

<http://www.uhcl.edu/flymetothemoon>

Web site for our chapter:

<http://chapters.moonsociety.org/houston/>

Thanks----Eric H. Bowen